THRIVING DURING A SHELTER IN PLACE

As we continue to help prevent the spread of COVID-19, we are being required to shelter in place, practice social distancing, and work from home. For many, especially those who live alone, these precautions fuel the risk of feeling isolated.

While there's no one-size-fits-all approach to coping with being alone, here are a few suggestions to help you feel more connected.

Create Routine Keeping to a schedule is important during these times. Start your day with a list of tasks/activities. Be sure you allow for some social connection by phone or from a distance.

Stay Connected Instead of cancelling social events, create new opportunities to bring people together.

- Schedule time to connect by phone or video for a book club meeting, or family/friend gatherings. Video chat lets us see facial cues and body language.
- "Porch chat" with neighbors where you talk through the front window.
- Coordinate a neighbor "stretch time" where neighbors step outside their homes each day to stretch, wave hello, and send good thoughts across the way.

Do something meaningful Doing something meaningful can contribute to a sense of purpose and identity. Only you can know what is meaningful to you, but here are some ideas to get you started.

- Enroll in an online course.
- Create a family tree using genealogy websites.
- Sign up to be an online volunteer.
- Visit our new virtual Recreation Center at www.sanbruno.ca.gov/virtualrec

Take Care of Yourself

Fear and anxiety about COVID-19 can be stressful. Here are some tips to help you manage stress and anxiety.

- Practice good self-care
- Minimize exposure to media/news
- Get facts from reputable sources
- Acknowledge
- Eat well, go for walks with family and friends
- Focus on things you can control
- Practice relaxation techniques

If you need to talk to, call the Adult Resource Line at 650-780-7542 with a counselor.
